

Champions are made when you believe in the possibility of the perfect team.

When you believe in the flyer even though she's fallen before.

When you believe in the base even though she's faltered before.

When you believe in the tumblers even though they've stumbled before.

When you believe in the routine even though it's fallen short before.

When you believe in the girl beside you and yourself even though you've failed before.

Believing in each other and yourself reveals the Champion within.